PRESS RELEASE

Local Business Owners Attend NAHB Tour

For immediate release - May 1, 2014: Joseph Folker, Leonard Kuhns, and Lynda Tompkins - owners of Timberhaven Log Homes in Lewisburg, PA – recently attended the National Association of Home Builders' Mega-Bus Tour in Manchester, NH. The 3-day tour, which took place April 27-29, is a road-based learning event offered by Building Systems Council.

Timberhaven owners had in-depth, hands-on opportunities to learn more about their log home specialty and new tricks from other specialties that they can apply to their business. The event included tours of the following leading systems-built manufacturing facilities:

- Epoch Homes in Pembroke, NH - a green modular home manufacturer
- Westchester Modular Homes in Wingdale, NY
- Coventry Log Homes in Woodsville, NH
- Bensonwood in Walpole, NH - a custom timberframe home supplier

The Building Systems Council is made up of six sub-councils: Modular Home Building Council, Panelized Home Building Council, Concrete Coalition, Log Homes Council, Associate Members Building Council and the Systems Builders Council, all with the same goal - to raise awareness of systems-built construction within the building industry and to educate home buyers about alternatives to traditional construction methods. The BSC Mega-Tour is the perfect opportunity for builders to learn more about the advantages the systems-built industry offers. Industry vendors such as Andersen Windows-Doors, Outlast Q8 Log Oil, Log Cabin Homes magazine, Log Home Living magazine, Perma-Chink Systems, and others sponsored the event.
